UNIQUELY MODERN

SOUTHWEST LIVING

Phoenix is well known for incorporating distinctive design approaches into uniquely modern southwestern homes. One needs to look no further than this incredible residence to see the success of such an approach.

With an exterior oasis that contrasts the stark desert surround, the interior of the home boasts powerful natural stone walls throughout the bedrooms and common areas, while the bright open layout of the master bathroom showcases how pebbles, wood and glass can be combined to create an enviable modern environment.

Island Stone product used:

- Tropical White Vtile II
- Sandstone Mint Vtile & Large Vtile

LUXURY AT THE HOUSE OF ROCK

As the name reflects, the 2012 House of Rock is a luxury rock inspired redesign of the former home of actress/singer Kathryn Grayson that pays homage to some of the most notable music icons of past and present.

Looking to infuse that spirit into this landmark home in Santa Monica, designer Elaine Culotti and a diverse team of other notable designers completely remodeled this classic property. Island Stone tiles are used among other luxurious and sophisticated materials to create a delicious mix of the most indulgent rooms in the world.

EFFORTLESS STYLE IN A TROPICAL OASIS

An Australian homeowners vision of a modern escape on the mystic Island of Bali, Indonesia.

Surfaces are the feature in this house. The wide-open layout and generous use of natural stone provide a comforting respite from the heat and humidity. From the large linear stone strips of the living room to the powerful glass walls of the master bath, the surfaces tell the story of the home, while the furnishings and fixtures were chosen to both highlight and compliment these original designs.

Island Stone product used:

- Silver Quartzitic Slate Strip Cladding
- Honed Andesite Solid Tile
- Temple Lava Rustic II
- Tropical White Rustic II

SOMETHING DIFFERENT

The soft tones of these beach glass tiles brighten the room and provide the perfect backdrop for the contrasting dark fixtures.

A MINIMALIST

UTOPIAN BATHROOM

White, by definition an “absence of color,” plays a more important role than its definition might suggest in this Pure Silk bathroom.

Color, light and clarity work in unison to give this Northern California bathroom a flawless appearance.

Light appears to emerge from the subtly textured tiled walls, giving the room a unique glow. From this achromatic background, the translucent blue shower floats among the walls while the fixtures and colored objects achieve an unheralded intensity.

Island Stone product used:

- Pure Silk Rectangle Beach Glass
- Spring Rectangle Beach Glass

INCORPORATING THE ELEMENTS

In a remarkable vision; wood, metal, stone, glass and porcelain are all combined effectively in this stunning New York bathroom.

Island Stone product used:
- Silver Quartzitic Slate Strip Cladding

RUSTIC CHARM

Overhead lighting perfectly captures the powerful relief created by the wedge shapes of the Rustic Cladding.

Island Stone product used:
- Sandstone Mint Rustic Cladding

BLACK SAND BEACH

BATHROOM

Created by the violent reaction between lava flow and the ocean, black sand beaches are one of nature's sought after treasures. Often found untouched among tropical islands, the dark sand powerfully contrasts the lighter colors of trees, plants and surrounding sea.

This dynamic appeal is emulated through use of dark pebbles, flat on the floor and stacked for relief against the faux wood porcelain walls. With water pouring in various directions and steam rising from the floor, it is not hard to imagine oneself experiencing first hand the powerful moment as earth, sea and fire meet in a clash of the elements.

Island Stone product used:

- Medan Charcoal Perfect Pebble
- Medan Charcoal Stacked Pebble

2012 BEST BATH

NKBA's '2012 Best Bath' highlights the powerful results of using original tiles for accenting high profile areas in a modern bathroom.

Island Stone product used:

- Fresh Mini Waveline
- Maluku Tan Pebble Border

A PLAY ON LIGHT

Well thought out lighting accentuates and adds drama to the textured surface of this Strip clad wall.

ISLAND STONE

A PROGRESSIVE VISION BROUGHT TO LIFE

The remarkable design of the Edge Restaurant, a Denver steakhouse, was the work of Mr. John Carney who is a founding principle of Carney Logan Burke Architects.

The vision of Mr. Carney takes the natural relief of the rustic cladding into an original geometric pattern. With the clean lines of the dark wood interior contrasting this powerful feature wall, the Edge interior perfectly encapsulates the dining experience of this progressive American steakhouse. One of the most distinct attributes of the design is the variation in direction of lay and the random angles of the joints. This feature insures that no section of the wall appears to be repeated.

A truly custom design.

RE-ENVISIONING PEBBLE DESIGN

The luxurious Spa in Miami's glamorous Eden Rock Hotel offers an alluring escape to guests and celebrities alike. Standing out in the ever-evolving Miami Beach hospitality market is a challenge that is easily overcome through Eden Roc's creative use of the exclusive Alpine Pebble.

Perfect Pebble and Strip Pebble are seamlessly integrated throughout the spa. While the feature walls and banisters embrace the directional appeal of the Strip Pebble, the natural pattern of Perfect Pebble prove an excellent choice for surfacing the floor and borders.

The inherent variation of the Alpine Pebble's schist structure acts as a organic backdrop all punctuated by green plants suspended from the ceiling.

LIGHTING EFFECTS

In the lobby of The Hotel at Arundel Preserve, natural light and downlights cast distinctively different shadows and patterns across the cladding's wedge relief.

Island Stone product used:
- Sandstone Mint Rustic Cladding

RUGGED HOSPITALITY

The wedge relief and rugged split-face surface of Vtile Cladding perfectly compliment the personality of the Iron Horse Bar and Grill in Missoula.
